

David B. Drown Scholarship for Public Health

Taylor Scott Redding

Public Health and Business Administration, Senior

A few things about me:

My name is Taylor Redding. I was born and raised an Aggie in North Logan, Utah. My parents and all of my brothers and sisters attended this university. As I grew up, I always planned on attending USU. Now that I'm here, I've decided to pursue a degree in both Public Health with an emphasis in Industrial Hygiene and Business Administration. I'm also doing Pre-Med requirements to apply to either Medical or PA school in the future. I enjoy studying in these majors because I feel having the public health background will help me to better understand patients with physiological problems due to occupational problems. I also believe that the business administration aspect of my studies will help me to become well rounded and able to start my own practice if that's the route I decide to take. I've tried my hardest to maintain my grades at high levels and because of that I've been on the Dean's list a number of times. After graduation, I hope to raise a family and attend professional school. This scholarship is very helpful to my educational goals because it will allow me to focus more on my studies and not have to worry as much about financing my education.
