Can you tell which of these creatures are bees and which are not? According to a survey led by USU biologist Joseph Wilson, many people are not sure. While many are aware of bee declines and bees' importance as pollinators, few people know of the wide diversity of bee species.
Read the whole Utah State Today article study by Mary-Ann Muffoletto about Dr. Wilson’s study.