Dr. Will Pearse and his collaborators recently published their findings in the online edition of Nature Ecology & Evolution. They have used a statistical estimator to extract data about phenological changes in plants. The data they have analyzes reveals that plants are blooming earlier each year. Read more about it in the Utah State Today article by Mary-Ann Muffoletto.