Dr. Susannah French
Recognized as USU Faculty Researcher of the Year

04/07/2022

The Faculty Researcher of the Year Award recognizes some of USU's most excellent researchers. Susannah French, the 2022 recipient of the award, is a professor and associate department head in the Department of Biology in the College of Science. French has built a nationally and internationally lauded research program in vertebrate physiological ecology, where she has published more than 90 journal articles and two book chapters during her career.

Since 2017, she has garnered an NSF RAPID grant, NSF Integrative Organismal Systems grant, two Department of Defense/U.S. Fish and Wildlife grants, and numerous foundational, supplemental and internal seed grants.

She has received more than $2.5 million in external and internal funding to support her research enterprises and student training.

Read the entire story here.